Dialogue 4:

When you get extra information

Dialogue 1: When you don't know how to find a piece

A: Excuse me. May I ask you something?

B: Sure. How may I help you?

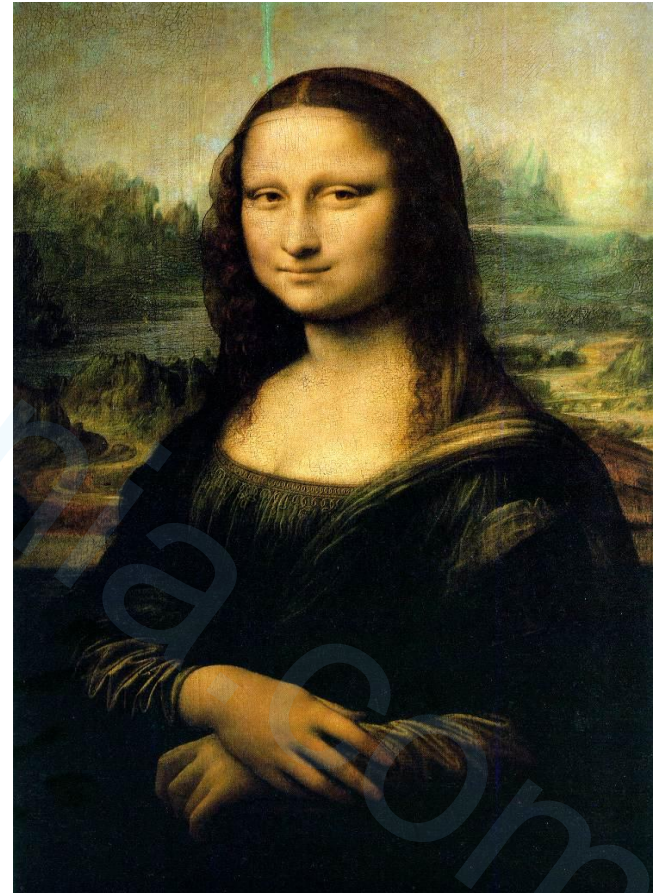

A: Where can I find the Mona Lisa?

B: It's on the next floor up those stairs. The gallery will be to your left.

A: Thank you. But I'm still not sure where to go.

B: This is a map of the museum. The major pieces are marked in red.

A: That will be very helpful. Thank you.

Dialogue 2: When the piece you want to see is not available

A: Pardon me, but where is the Chagall gallery?

B: That gallery isn't available to the public at present.

A: Do you mean it's off limits for now?

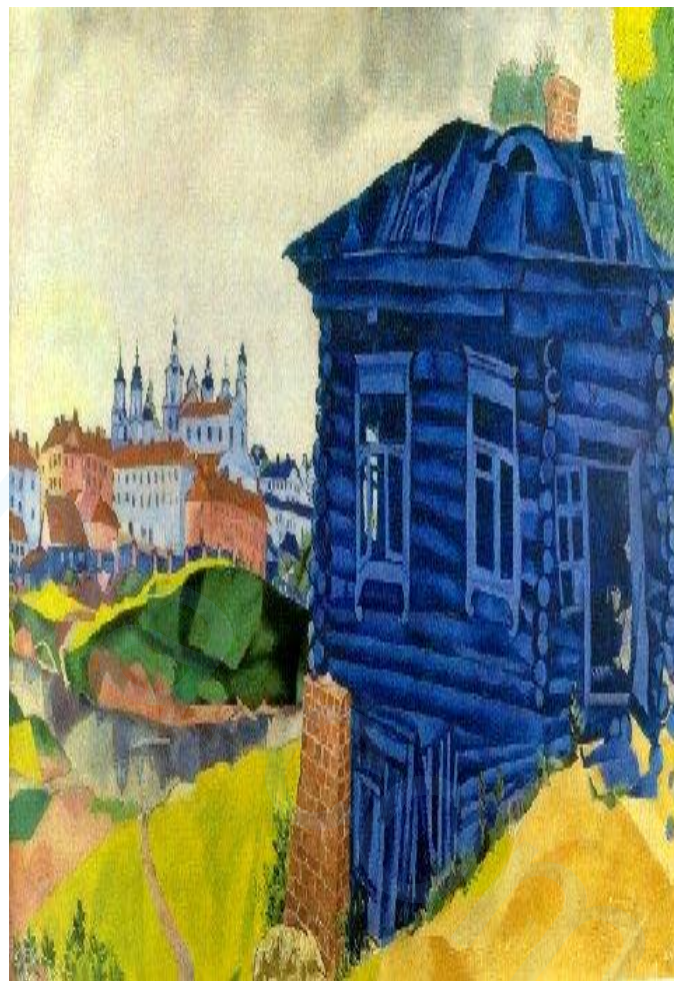

B: That's right. It's under renovation.

A: I didn't know that. When does it open again?

B: Later in August. I can't be sure. I'm sorry.

A: That's okay. I'll come again later.

B: Thanks for visiting anyway.

Dialogue 3: When the person you ask does not know where it is

A: Excuse me. I'm looking for the Manet exhibition.

B: Pardon me? I didn't catch that.

A: The Manet exhibition. Where in the museum is it?

B: I'm afraid I don't know. It must be on another floor.

A: Who can tell me where to go?

B: The main information center. Or you can take this brochure.

A: Oh, okay. I'll take the brochure.

B: Sorry I can't be of more help.

Dialogue 4: When you get extra information

A: Excuse me. Are you looking for something?

B: Actually, I was wondering where the Chagall exhibition was.

A: I've just been there. I'll show you where it is.

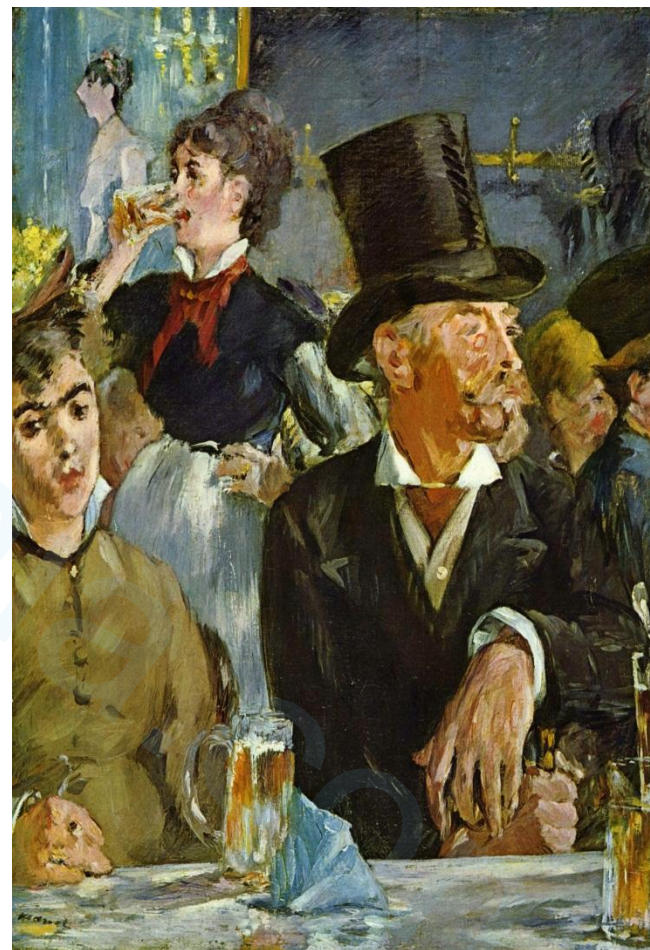

B: Great! Thank you.

A: But I suggest you check out the place and visit a bit later.

B: Why is that?

A: The gallery's full of people right now. I couldn't see a thing.

B: Okay. Thanks for the tip.
