B: I heard that a famous orchestra is coming this summer.

A: Really? Let's check it out.

B: That must be it. You see that poster?

A: Let's go and buy tickets. I really need to listen to some live classical music.

B: You're paying this time!

Dialogue 2: Going to a hip-hop concert

A: Look at this. Dynamic Trio is having a concert tomorrow!

B: So what? We can't go. We have an assignment due next week.

A: Come on! We should go. You know how much I like them.

B: Check this out. Wu-tang Clan is coming next month.

A: Is that true? I don't believe this!

B: Let's skip the DT concert and go to that one next month.

A: You got it. But shouldn't we buy tickets now?

B: Let's go. Before it gets sold out.

Dialogue 3: Choosing between two concerts

A: They have two classic concerts next weekend.

B: Which one would you like to go to?

A: I prefer orchestra to opera. But we should check the venues.

B: You're right. Venues are really important. Especially if it's a classical music concert.

A: I can't stand a good performance being wasted by poor facilities.

B: I know It's really hard to bear.

A: This one's perfect. An orchestra playing at the Barbican Center.

B: That's just what I needed.

Dialogue 4: Choosing between hip-hop and jazz

A: Do you like music?

B: I love to listen to music. I have an MP3 player pumping music all day.

A: Would you like to go to a concert with me?

B: Sure, I would. There's a hip-hop concert tomorrow. You care to go?

A: I was thinking about going to a jazz concert.

B: Jazz concert? I'm not sure. I've never been to a jazz concert.

A: I've never been to any hip-hop concerts, either.

B: Why don't you try hip-hop this time? You'll love it.
